Went with his father Thomas Stribling to Logan Co. Ky. in 1803 and to Morgan Co., Ill. in 1827. He became a Methodist minister. Lived near Salem Church 3 mi. east of Jacksonville, Ill. It was "One of the earliest religious societies formed in the country. It was noted for the residence of a remarkably gifted and singular minister Rev. William Stribling" Illinois Historical Journal Vo. 4, p. 310 says-- "Among the early preachers in Illinois were some noted for various eccentricities. William C. Stribling was an illustration of this. He was a very able and eloquent preacher. His command of language was most extraordinary. He administered the following reproof to a user of tobacco: "Venerable sir, the deleterious effluvia emanating from your tobaccoistic reservoir so overshadows our ocular optics and so obfuscates our sensorium that our respirable apparatus must shortly be obtunded unless, through your abundant suavity and pre-eminent politeness, you will disimboque that illusinistic tube from the stimulating and stermitatory ingredient, which replenishes the rotundity of the vastness of its concavity" m.
